

Become a member

Demonstrate your commitment for free knowledge and boost
Wikimedia CH's voice as a member!

Why become a member?

1.

Demonstrate your dedication to the advancement and accessibility of free knowledge, particularly to Wikipedia and other Wikimedia projects.

2.

Endorse the significance of Wikimedia CH as a partner and boost the association's voice in promoting free knowledge.

3.

Join the Wikimedia CH and member meetings, including the General Assemblies, where active members have voting rights*.

4.

Participate in numerous volunteer activities in areas such as culture, education, media literacy, software and tool development or public relations.

How to become a member.

You can easily become a member by scanning the QR code on the right or by completing the registration form available with further details on this link: www.wikimedia.ch/en/get-engaged/become-a-member/

If you have any questions, feel free to email us at membership@wikimedia.ch.

According to our bylaws, supporting and institutional members are valued partners who do not hold voting rights at general assemblies. Only active members possess voting rights; however, please note that holding active status does not require mandatory involvement in specific activities.

Thank you very much for your interest in supporting our work!
